2005-2006: MSc: Department of Economics, University of York, UK

2007-2012: PhD: Department of Economics, University of Granada, Spain

Research

I am interested in why people in some countries are more civic citizens than in others. Analysing experimental and survey datasets I am trying to establish causal inferences between contemporary institutions and behaviour. Currently I am collecting experimental data from European countries exploring the difference between social and civic behaviour.
